The Tariff Bill.

We are informed by telegraph that the tariff bill, lately introduced in Congress, has passed both branches, and before this is probably signed by the President.

The free trade advocates claim that it is on an average an increase, over present rates, of 50 to 100 per cent ad valorem, while Stevens, of Pennsylvania, and other protective men, denounce it as a free trade measure from beginning to end. The bill is quite voluminous, covering nearly a full page in the New York Tribune, so that it is impossible for us to give even an abstract. It was the object of the framers to make a law that would yield the greatest amount of revenue and at the same time grant protection to our manufacturers, and whether they have attained this object, which has been sought after by American statesmen ever since the government was established, the working of the law alone can tell.

The building up of home manufactures is a commendable policy, but the great trouble with all previous laws of this nature, has been that only certain branches of industry were included in its provisions, and consequently the whole nation was taxed for the benefit of certain classes that are found in only two or three States.

There is no doubt but that this bill will stimulate manufactures in many of the States, but there are some sections of country where there are no natural facilities or taste on the part of the people for manufacturing, and upon such places any tariff measure acts unjustly. In fact the direct tendency of this bill is to make Utah, Idaho, Montana and other consuming countries pay a direct tax into the pockets of the manufacturers of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and other eastern States.

We think a direct tax is the most just manner of supporting the Government. Then each State pays according to its ability to pay, and every man pays in proportion to his wealth instead of the number of months he has to feed.

OUR FORESTS.

Our present stock of timber and the probability of its supplying the future demands of the country is a subject which is exciting considerable attention in the East. A. M. C. Hutchinson, of Kansas, and several other "disinterested" individuals who are trying to get an extensive land grant in aid of a tree planting scheme through Congress, have raised quite a commotion among the members of the "Society for the Advancement of Science and Art" in regard to this matter.

That it may be an advisable measure for settlers on our treeless prairies to plant trees, as the most economical manner of obtaining their timber, no one can deny. But no one acquainted with the resources of the timbered section of our country can for a moment believe that the country at large will ever be in want of timber.

Go to the State of Maine and you will find nearly one-half of the State covered with fine timber. These forests have been supplying a large part of the demand for timber in the New England, Middle and Southern States, and even the West Indies, for upward of fifty years, and to-day you cannot give away timber land unless it lays within three or four miles of the three large rivers of the State or some of their largest tributaries. The growth of timber is so rapid in that State, that land, which twenty years ago was considered completely culled, is now first class timber land.

North Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota have for the last twenty years been supplying the Northwestern and Mississippi river States with timber, and in those three States no timber land is considered worth holding unless it is within a mile of some of the principle rivers, and but few of these same rivers have been cleared out for driving logs for more than one-fourth or one-third of their length.

The country on the Plains may have to transport their lumber by the Pacific Railroad at some future day. But it will be found that the growth of timber in the Northwestern States, New England and Pennsylvania will be equal to the consumption during the next one hundred years.

"THE IDAHO UNION."—This is the title of a new tri-weekly journal just issued at Idaho City, Idaho Territory, by Dan McLaughlin, Esq. Terms ("for the campaign") $5; or $1 per week. The initial number before us is a very creditable one, as well for handsome typography as for editorial taste and talent. The Union is literally a Union organ, and advocates the election of J. M. Kirkpatrick as Delegate to Congress, in opposition to Tolbrook, the late Delegate. There's nothing like competition, in the trade of politics as well as that of publishing. Here's our best wishes to the Union.

FROM THE RIVER.—The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company have decided to make Council Bluffs, Iowa, the western terminus of their road. The people of Iowa are enthusiastic in their efforts of General Dodge for Congress. The cars are now running through from St. Louis to Leavenworth.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION-VEDETTE.]

CONGRESSIONAL.

HOUSE.

Washington, July 13. The House passed the miscellaneous appropriation bill, which is the last of the appropriation bills.

Morrill, from Ways and Means Committee, reported a bill to protect the revenue and for other purposes, which embraces the administrative sections of the late tariff bill, and increased the duty on cigars and spirits.

The House adopted a resolution without debate for retaining Mr. Dawson in his seat contested by Fuller.

The House passed the bill authorizing railroad bridges at Hannibal, Quincy, Keokuk, Burlington, Dubuque, La Crosse and Wadena.

The House considered the reports on the Russian Grinnell affair, but without action adjourned, pending the motion to drop the whole subject.

GENERAL NEWS.

New York, July 13. The Post's money article says there is less doing in Government's and are a shade lower. Loan market easy. Cotton dull and unchanged at 35 3/8. Flour 10 1/2 to 15 lower. Corn opened shade firmer and closed with free sellers, at yesterday's prices.

Only one case of cholera in the city and one in Brooklyn.

It is reported to-day that the Atlantic Mail Steamer Co. have decided to increase their capital stock from 400,000 to $500,000.

The Times' Washington special says the report of Raymond's remarks in the caucus, is a wholesale fabrication. It says he was questioned as to the course of the Times on the Philadelphia Convention. He said nothing whatever about any understanding with anybody; that none but Union men were to participate in the Convention. He did not admit that he had done wrong; he retraced nothing he had said or written, and made no promises for the future for himself or for the Times, either in regard to a convention or any other subject.

Secretary Welles has written a letter to Senator Doolittle approving the call for the Philadelphia Convention.

The Democratic State Convention is called to meet at Providence, R. I., on the 23d of August to appoint delegates to the Philadelphia Convention.

Washington, July 13. The Senate passed a joint resolution giving the right of way to the Union Pacific Railroad through the military reservations.

Another caucus of the Union members of Congress will be held Saturday evening, Washington, July 14.

The Senate proceedings are unimportant.

The Congressional caucus, this evening, was held without secrecy, on motion of Raymond, who desired an opportunity to vindicate himself. Raymond expressed no opinion, however, in regard to the new party movement.

Senator Sherman made the following speech at the caucus: "I have listened to the speech of Mr. Johnson, and I am glad to see that the Republican party must stand firm, to hope for no support from the President, who was certain to go against them. He could speak for Ohio and say that Ex. cetera patronage could not be successfully used to operate against the Republican party. He favored an early adjournment, that members might return home to meet the issue before the people."

Senator Wilson, Chairman of the Committee appointed at the last caucus, reported a resolution for the final adjournment of Congress on the 23d.

Thad. Stevens took a decided ground in favor of continuing the session until December.

Colefax said it was almost a physical impossibility to adjourn so early as the 23d.

Sherman still contended that it was his duty to resign early and announced that the Senate caucus had decided not to act upon the bill regulating appointments to office, but that the President should have a fair trial, and if he made improper use of the patronage, something could be done to put a check on him in December.

Wilson's report was then adopted. The President, this afternoon, nominated to the Senate Alexander W. Russell, now U. S. Attorney, to be Postmaster General vice Dennison, resigned. Although the friends of Secretary Stanton and Attorney General Speed claim that they have both written letters of resignation, yet the President has not acknowledged the receipt of them. No doubt, however, is felt of their withdrawal by the middle of next week.

The Cabinet crisis was impelled by a letter of Senator Doolittle to each Cabinet officer categorically demanding to know whether the new party movement would be sustained by them.

Cincinnati, July 14. The Democratic State Central Committee, after two days' secret session, have fully decided to join the new party movement, and the Enquirer this morning contains a call for District Conventions to elect delegates to Philadelphia, one-half old Democrats and the other half Johnson Republicans.

New York, July 14. Much excitement exists in financial circles, caused by alleged frauds in connection with the North River Bank of Hoboken. It is said that worthless notes, bonds, stocks, &c. have been taken to the bank and deposited for which certificates of deposit bearing interest, were received. With these certificates of deposit purchases have been made of real estate, merchandise, &c. in the city and various parts of the country. It is thought that Wall street is flooded with this paper. Geo. W. Chadwick, supposed to be Vice-President of the Bank, has been arrested and committed. Samuel Jackson was also arrested as an accomplice.

Items at Large.

There are 1,480 theatres in Europe. Crosby's Chicago Opera House is to be put up at a raffle.

The preachers of Canada West protest against Sunday funerals.

Jenny Lind is to bid farewell to the stage at Düsseldorf, Germany, in July.

It is said that Gen. Sickles will probably be appointed Naval Officer at New York.

There are but thirty-three places in Alabama and Mississippi provided with postmasters.

The Shenandoah Valley has almost entirely recovered from the ravages of the late war.

Chapel Hill (N. C.) University has conferred the degree of L. L. D. upon President Johnson.

Private Miles O'Reilly, it is said, had a very large hand in writing the prison life of Jeff. Davis.
